'Twas Right Around Xmas

We were all at a loss No one was stirring Not even the boss.

And gleaming with care In hopes that their owners Soon would be there.

The salesmen weren't working But sleeping instead While visions of car deals Danced in their head.

The girls in the office The boss in his chair Had just settled down . . . It was quiet in there.

When out on the lot There arose such a clatter
The salesmen woke up
To see what was the matter.

We ran to the window And peered thru the rain And out on the lot Folks were going insane!

"A Chevy!" "A Buick!"

"A Ford!" "There's a dandy!"

"Such beauties!" "What prices!"

"Those wagons!" "So handy!"

The whole town was putting
The cars through their paces
We knew they would buy
By the smiles on their faces.

As we gathered our wits
And were turning around
Into the office
They came with a bound.

They spoke just a word
We came straight to the point
And orders were written
All over the joint.

We laid the low figures Right under their nose The boss gave a nod— (He was nuts, I suppose!)

They ran to the door Gave out with a whistle Took off like a shot From a jet propelled missile.

And we heard them exclaim 'Ere they drove out of sight
"It's a CAR-MERRY CHRISTMAS
At Kenneth, all right!"
